What is the office for?

A office which nurtures mental health and encourages workers to be productive. It is a place how people work from open spaces to private work areas. Workspaces encourage both planned and spontaneous connections between people, breaking down barriers across all levels, services, roles and functions. Social spaces like lounges, cafés, outdoor green space and wellness centres allow people to socialize at work and work in social settings.

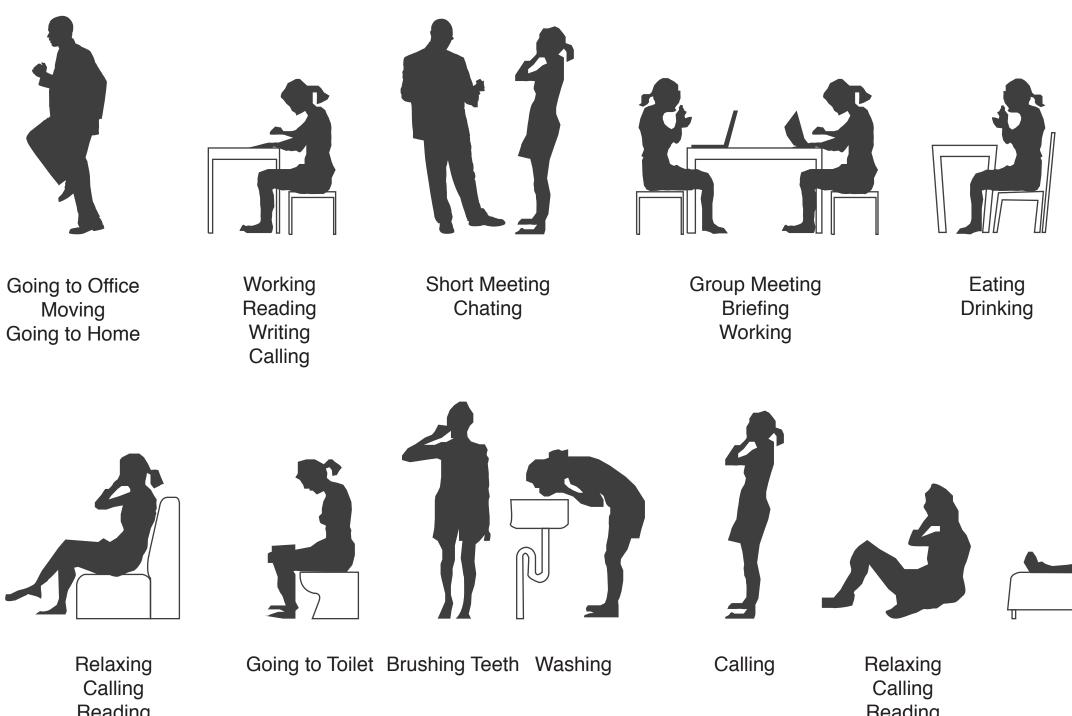

It is a place that highlights possibilities for the future that could potentially make work more productive and more meaningful.

What is required to make this happen?

- 1. Using space better.
- 2. Reducing down time.
- 3. Conducting better meetings
